Good News: The Bright Cloud

That day on the mountain was one when the three disciples experienced wonder, awe and fear. When the bright cloud covered them with shadow and when they heard the divine voice from the cloud, they fell on their faces, overcome with fear.

To a great extent we have lost all fear of God today. It was no harm to lose that soul-terror which was linked to a punitive concept of God. But the healthy fear of God, that gift of the Holy Spirit, is also hard to find. There is a distinct absence of awe and a conspicuous lack of due reverence of God and due respect for the things of God.

The Lord's name is a common part of everyday vocabulary: worse again, it is used as a curse word.

The Lord's day is no longer sacred to many. The ease with which people trip up to receive the Eucharist and the apparent lack of private thanksgiving makes one suspect a lack of awe and reverence.

Some people say that the 'new liturgy' is responsible! An over-simplification of a complex change surely, but there may be a certain amount of truth there.

Changing from Latin to the everyday language brought great advances in participation. But language is no mere matter of sounds. It is deeply rooted in the cultural mentality which has grown in years that number in hundreds and thousands.

The use of the vernacular can take away the sense of mystery if it creates the expectation that all this ceremony can now be understood. Words are taken on their own value without pointing beyond themselves to the inexpressible mystery of God. We use too many flat words which never help people climb the mountain to meet the bright light of God.

A spate of words sweep over us without space or silence. Three readings, a psalm, a homily, profession of faith and prayers of the faithful, at least. There may be further words of introduction as long as the readings themselves.

So many words in full spate that we are lucky if we receive one word we can hold on to. We have reached the stage described by T. S. Eliot in 'Choruses From the Rock' when we have

'Knowledge of speech but not of silence;
Knowledge of words, and ignorance of the Word.'

In the absence of mystery and awe, people complain that the liturgy is boring! It's some achievement to make God appear boring but we have managed it.

In many bible stories the writers picture a bright cloud to convey a moment of meeting with God.

One cannot look directly into the sun, much less meet God face to face. But through the filter of a cloud one can gaze heavenwards. And though clouds are dark by nature, the cloud of revelation is bright because of the intensity of the light within it. The cloud conceals God but his brightness reveals him.

The mistake made by the word-obsessed mind is to look at the cloud and see only cloud. Instead of inviting one to a deeper experience of God, now the cloud of words only gets in the way. And without the deep experience of God people will never fall prostrate in adoration.

Awe and reverential fear are rare in this age of flat words. One word on the mountain is sufficient.

'This is my Son, the Beloved; he enjoys my favour. Listen to him.'

THE SEASON OF LENT is the most appropriate time for celebrating the SACRAMENT OF PENANCE.

Already on Ash Wednesday the people of God has heard the solemn invitation, Turn away from sin and believe the good news. It is therefore fitting to have several penitential celebrations during Lent, so that all the faithful may have the opportunity to be reconciled with God and their neighbour and so be able to celebrate the paschal mystery in the Easter Triduum with renewed hearts.

The Sacrament of Penance is better celebrated before rather than during the Easter Triduum.

Here in the Parish, each Saturday from 5.00pm—5.30pm the Sacrament of Penance is offered in the Church. We will be using the revised rite of the Sacrament and laminated sheets giving the order of the Sacrament of Penance will be available.

In Holy Week on Wednesday 12th April, there will be a Communal Second Rite of the Sacrament of Penance in the Church.

Humour A boy asks his father, "Dad, are bugs good to eat?" "That's disgusting. Don't talk about things like that over dinner," the dad replies. After dinner the father asks, "Now, son, what did you want to ask me?" "Oh, nothing," the boy says. "There was a bug in your soup, but now it's gone".

Spirituality for Life

The voice of the Spirit speaking of gratitude, generosity, responsibility and increase

Each one of you has received a special grace, so, like good stewards responsible for all these varied graces of God, put it out at the service of others.”
(1 Peter 4:10)

March 12th 2017 Second Sunday in Lent.

“Go forth from the land of your kinsfolk and from your father’s house to a land that I will show you.” Genesis 12:1 God calls all of us to leave behind our old ways and to follow Him, placing our complete trust in Him. Some of the old ways that we may have to struggle to leave behind might be materialism, selfishness and greed. Yet God promises to show us a new land and a better way to live. (Accessed on 24th February 2017 from <http://arcchst.org/stewardship/page/bulletin-inserts>)

EVANGELIZATION AND STEWARDSHIP

In various ways, stewardship of the Church leads people to share in the work of evangelization or proclaiming the good news, in the work of catechesis or transmitting and strengthening the faith, and in works of justice and mercy on behalf of persons in need. Stewardship requires support of the Church’s institutions and programs for these purposes. But, according to their opportunities and circumstances, members of the Church also should engage in such activities personally and on their own initiative.

Stewardship – A Disciple’s Response. A Pastoral Letter on Stewardship

Go out to the whole world and proclaim the Gospel to every creature. Mark 16:15

I realized that evangelization is not just something that someone else in a far off land does. It isn’t something that people on television do on Sunday morning. It is something that we do each day! How do we do it? Entirely in how we live our lives. I heard somewhere that many people decide to become Catholic as a result of seeing how their Catholic friends live their lives. And the choices we make in the market place (what we watch on TV, the books and magazines we buy) also determine what images – positive or negative, wholesome or destructive, supportive of a Christian lifestyle or ambivalent - go out to society.

Questions

How am I passing on the faith to my loved ones and friends and neighbors?

How might I do this better?

How do I help and support Church efforts to spread the message of Jesus?

There is an inbred connection between stewardship and evangelization. A connection where, if we have the gift of faith, Stewardship calls us to proclaim it and to share it. Which is what evangelization is all about.

Archbishop Thomas Murphy
