GOOD NEWS: Hypocrisy and Humility

Matthew's caricature of the Pharisees was so powerful that ever since then the name Pharisee has become a proverbial catchword for hypocrisy. The word hypocrisy comes from the Greek word for an actor playing a role on stage. Hypocrisy has come to have a special association with acting and exterior role of piety and goodness which one does not match up to interiorly.

Jesus put his finger on the three areas of hypocrisy where the Pharisees in each one of us tries to cover up the hollowness of our deep personal insecurity.

First is the tendency not to practice what we preach. We are very quick to point out the faults of others while we have excuses ready for our own failures. We forget that when the one finger of criticism points at another person, there are three fingers pointing back at ourselves. We criticize the splinter in our brother's eye and fail to notice the plank in our own. But persistent condemnation of others is usually a sign of deep personal insecurity.

Whoever is humbly facing up to his or her own faults will be very slow to preach to others. For those of us who must preach, it is a harrowing but ultimately enriching experience to feel this huge gap between the fine words we use before others and the truth of our own sinful lives. The preacher who comes through this crisis has a new tone of compassion in his voice every time he speaks. People will listen to this voice which speaks with the truth. But an audience is alienated by the hard voice that preaches at them.

The second tendency of hypocrisy is to lay heavy burdens on others while not attempting to lift them ourselves. It is said that every loudmouthed fanatic is deeply insecure: too insecure to negotiate with an opponent, for if one stone of the defensive wall is taken away, all might collapse. The motto of the fanatic is: argument weak, shout for effect. Whoever has not negotiated with his or her own shadow or negative side will be full of deep prejudices. They frequently utter angry, broadside condemnations. They make dishonest demands on others, far in excess of what they themselves produce.

The third weakness of the hypocrite is to depend on marks of honour and people's attention. The person who is hollow within has to bolster up self-esteem by outward pomposity and prestige. If we are very weak in this regard we cannot function for long without constant strokes of affirmation. Self-doubt and fatigue set in if words of praise or tokens of affirmation are not forthcoming. Quite often, situations are so manipulated as to make oneself seem indispensable to others. Being needed is then a tremendous stroke of affirmation.

The basic mistake of all hypocrites is to expect to find their security through their own merits. It is significant that, immediately after speaking about hypocrisy, Jesus went on to talk about humility. Humility is precisely what the hypocrite needs to discover. Humility comes from the Latin word for the earth. As a virtue it means having your feet set honestly in the bedrock of truth. It brings us to admit our own faults. But it does not stop there: it leads us on to cast our cares upon God and trust that he will be our hope and protection.

In that way, as Jesus said: 'Anyone who humbles himself will be exalted.'

Today's responsorial psalm portrays the humble soul which is totally secure in God:

'O Lord, my hearts is not proud nor haughty my eyes ...
Truly I have set my soul
in silence and peace.
A weaned child on its mother's breast,
even so is my soul.'

Gospel greatness begins in the humble recognition of our own faults and failures: then it learns that the true source of security is not what we might merit but what God's mercy offers us. The soul then delights in following the example of Jesus Christ who made himself servant of all.

Special Ministers of the Eucharist— Communion Ministers

It is recommended that each year, the Ministers should meet for a period of reflection. On Wednesday 8th November, Communion Ministers are invited to meet in the church after the Rosary at 7.00pm. We will spend a little time reflecting on the Eucharist and who it is that we offer to the communicants. Please make an effort to attend this session. It is open also to anyone wishing to be considered as a communion Minister. This session will be an opportunity to refresh our understanding of the practicalities of this ministry. The session is planned to last no more than one hour.

Share the Dignity have a Christmas appeal called It's in the Bag which as a Parish we will be participating in.

You have the power to make life better for a woman or girl experiencing homelessness or poverty this Christmas. Donate to our Christmas collection "It's in the Bag". Provide Sanitary items, personal hygiene products and everyday luxuries to homeless women, women at risk or women experiencing domestic violence. It's simple. First of all, choose a handbag you no longer use. Then, fill it with items that would make a woman feel special, pop in a thoughtful note or Christmas card and show her someone cares. Show her that she matters because everyone deserves to feel that way.

Don't forget the teenage girls either if you do a teenage bag tie a yellow ribbon onto the handles so the volunteers who distribute know that is for a teenager.

Next time you're at the shops, collect a few items for your Christmas handbag. Drop your completed bag into the Parish office.

Parish Christmas Party Monday 20th November beginning at 10.30am in the Ron Illidge Centre.

For catering purposes we need numbers by the weekend of 18/19 November, so if you are attending please put your name down as soon as possible as we have only 80 places including our volunteers.

Youth Group The Youth Group require a Laptop. If you have a Laptop that you are no longer using would you consider donating to the Youth Group. The Laptop should be at least 2 years old with USB ports so that they can run programs from it and being able to link to the TV in the Parish Centre. Contact the office if you can help.

Humour Mary was going to the office party but needed a new party dress.

In the clothing store she asked, "May I try on that dress in the window, please?"

"Certainly not, madam," responded the salesgirl, "You'll have to use the fitting room like everyone else."

Spirituality for Life

Each one of you has received a special grace, so, like good stewards response -able for all these varied graces of God, put it out at the service of others.” (1 Peter 4:10)

November 5th - 31st Sunday in Ordinary Time

“Whoever exalts himself will be humbled; but whoever humbles himself will be exalted.” - MATTHEW 23:12 Jesus gave His life to serve, not to be served. Putting other’s needs before our own needs is a sign of becoming a mature disciple, of following Jesus’ example. Humility is really a sign of a strength. By putting other’s needs first we declare to the world that we are putting our complete trust in God. When we align our thoughts and actions with God’s plan for us, the result is Joy and Peace. EVANGELIZATION AND STEWARDSHIP

In various ways, stewardship of the Church leads people to share in the work of evangelization or proclaiming the good news, in the work of catechesis or transmitting and strengthening the faith, and in works of justice and mercy on behalf of persons in need. Stewardship requires support of the Church’s institutions and programs for these purposes. But, according to their opportunities and circumstances, members of the Church also should engage in such activities personally and on their own initiative. Stewardship – A Disciple’s Response. A Pastoral Letter on Stewardship

G*o out to the whole world and proclaim the Gospel to every creature. Mark 16:15*

I realized that evangelization is not just something that someone else in a far off land does. It isn’t something that people on television do on Sunday morning. It is something that we do each day! How do we do it? Entirely in how we live our lives. I heard somewhere that many people decide to become Catholic as a result of seeing how their Catholic friends live their lives. And the choices we make in the market place (what we watch on TV, the books and magazines we buy) also determine what images – positive or negative, wholesome or destructive, supportive of a Christian lifestyle or ambivalent - go out to society.

Questions

How am I passing on the faith to my loved ones and friends and neighbors?

How might I do this better?

How do I help and support Church efforts to spread the message of Jesus?

There is an inbred connection between stewardship and evangelization. A connection where, if we have the gift of faith, Stewardship calls us to proclaim it and to share it. Which is what evangelization is all about. Archbishop Thomas Murphy

True evangelization can only be achieved if we hold true to the sentiments expressed by Silvester O’Flynn on the front page. Without humility, the evangelizer will never touch the hearts of the listeners, their words will be presented as being self-righteous and judgemental.
